"We concluded 2019 with a strategic focus on reducing risks and protecting net assets, in response to the challenging market conditions and further evolving regulatory parameters," said Mr. Min Luo, Founder, Chairman and Chief Executive Officer of Qudian. "In the second half of 2019, the regulatory environment became increasingly stringent with the introduction of further restrictions on loan collection practices, data collection and usage, and marketing campaigns of fintech platforms, as well as the regulatory requirements for P2P lending platforms to orderly exit their P2P businesses. As such, the overall availability of funding sources for consumer credit has shrunk, and delinquency rates across the industry have surged. Our D1 delinquency rate[4], a more real-time representation of our portfolio asset quality, has risen to around 13% as of the end of the fourth quarter of 2019, from around 10% as of the end of the previous quarter."

"In light of these market dynamics, we adopted more precautionary measures to protect our net asset value with a long-term perspective in mind. For our risk undertaking business, we implemented stricter loan approval standards, limiting our loan approval rate to low single-digit in the fourth quarter. As a result, we substantially reduced our risk-undertaking outstanding loan balance by RMB3.5 billion within one single quarter. Meanwhile, our open platform institutional funding partners have also adopted more stringent credit evaluation criteria, which subsequently decreased the credit volume on our open platform by 19.7% in the fourth quarter of 2019, compared to the preceding quarter."

"Looking at the near term, although the impact of the COVID-19 outbreak on the economy is still unclear, we expect the epidemic to exacerbate the already existing challenges in the consumer credit sector. Therefore, we plan to continue mitigating our risk exposure to the consumer credit market by reducing loan book aggressively in the first half of 2020. Until the credit cycle terminates the current downtrend, we intend to maintain a leverage ratio^[5] of lower than 1.9x and remain committed to protecting our net assets. With this prudent operating strategy, we will utilize the increased liquidity of our capital for our share repurchase program as well as strategic investments for new areas of growth." Mr. Luo concluded.

"The combined impact from the macroeconomic slowdown, regulatory developments, and difficult operating environment presented us with a challenging start of 2020," said Ms. Sissi Zhu, Vice President, Investor Relations of Qudian.

"In light of the COVID-19 outbreak and its ensuing adverse influence on the macroeconomy, we worked closely with our partners to mitigate the epidemic's negative impact on the consumer credit industry. Together with our partners, we further accelerated the deleveraging process by implementing more rigorous credit approval standards, which allowed us to reduce our overall transaction volume. During the first two months of 2020, our average monthly transaction volume in our loan book and open platform further decreased by approximately 50% and 61%, respectively, compared to the average monthly transaction volume in the fourth quarter of 2019. In addition, we also recorded higher provisions for our receivables and losses on guarantee and risk assurance liabilities. This reflects near-term asset quality challenges ever since our vintage M1+ delinquency rate reached 5.6% in December 2019 and D1 delinquency rate doubled to 20% in February 2020 from approximately 10% for the third quarter of 2019. Consequently, we expect the reduced origination volume combined with higher provisions for receivables and losses on guarantee and risk assurance liabilities to generate a material loss in the first quarter of 2020."

"Given the fast moving dynamics of the industry, uncertainties and macro challenges, we believe our practice of not providing guidance is appropriate, as it gives the management flexibility in taking quick and decisive actions to protect net assets on behalf of our stakeholders. The quick reduction in loan book in the last quarter of 2019 and thus far in the first quarter of 2020 will have a near term impact on our quarterly results, but we also believe it is the right course of action to ensure the longer term viability of the business. We will keep monitoring the market development and stay agile in our strategic adjustments." Ms. Zhu concluded.

[4] "D1 delinquency rate" is defined as (i) the total amount of principal and financing service fees that became overdue as a specified date, divided by (ii) the total amount of principal and financing services fees that was due for repayment as of such date, in each case with respect to our loan book business and transaction services business.

[5] "Leverage ratio" is defined as the ratio between (i) outstanding balance of our loan book business and (ii) total net assets.

Use of Non-GAAP Financial Measures

We use adjusted net income, a Non-GAAP financial measure, in evaluating our operating results and for financial and operational decision-making purposes. We believe that adjusted net income helps identify underlying trends in our business by excluding the impact of share-based compensation expenses, which are non-cash charges. We believe that adjusted net income provides useful information about our operating results, enhances the overall understanding of our past performance and future prospects and allows for greater visibility with respect to key metrics used by our management in its financial and operational decision-making.

Adjusted net income is not defined under U.S. GAAP and are not presented in accordance with U.S. GAAP. This Non-GAAP financial measure has limitations as analytical tools, and when assessing our operating performance, cash flows or our liquidity, investors should not consider them in isolation, or as a substitute for net loss / income, cash flows provided by operating activities or other consolidated statements of operation and cash flow data prepared in accordance with U.S. GAAP.

We mitigate these limitations by reconciling the Non-GAAP financial measure to the most comparable U.S. GAAP performance measure, all of which should be considered when evaluating our performance.

For more information on this Non-GAAP financial measure, please see the table captioned "Unaudited Reconciliation of GAAP and Non-GAAP Results" set forth at the end of this press release.
